

CONFIDENTIALITY AND WEBSITE DEVELOPMENT AGREEMENT

This Confidentiality and Website Development Agreement (“Agreement”) is entered into on January 15, 2026, by and between Matteo Rosso, a web developer (“Developer”), and the Company, whose identity and details are intentionally omitted from this document (“Company”). The Developer and Company may each be referred to as a “Party” and collectively as the “Parties.”

1. Purpose and Scope

The Company engages Matteo Rosso to design, develop, configure, and deliver a news website and related digital functionality (the “Project”).

The Developer shall perform the Project professionally and in accordance with the technical specifications, functionality, design requirements, and other requirements agreed upon by the Parties. Any material changes or additional work outside the agreed scope may require a separate written agreement or additional compensation.

2. Confidentiality

In connection with the Project, the Developer may receive or have access to confidential or proprietary information belonging to the Company. Such information may include business plans, unpublished news or editorial material, source code, databases, passwords, access credentials, designs, financial information, user information, marketing strategies, technical information, internal communications, and other non-public information (“Confidential Information”).

The Developer agrees to:

- Keep all Confidential Information strictly confidential.
- Use Confidential Information solely for performing the Project.
- Not disclose Confidential Information to any third party without the Company's prior written consent, except where disclosure is required by law.
- Take reasonable measures to protect Confidential Information against unauthorized access, use, or disclosure.

- Promptly notify the Company of any known or suspected unauthorized disclosure or security incident involving Confidential Information.

Confidentiality obligations shall not apply to information that is publicly available through no fault of the Developer, was lawfully known by the Developer before disclosure, is independently developed without using Confidential Information, or is lawfully received from a third party without a confidentiality obligation.

These confidentiality obligations shall survive the completion or termination of the Project.

3. Website Development Services

The Developer shall provide the services reasonably necessary to develop the Company's news website, including, as applicable:

- Website architecture and technical setup.
- Front-end and back-end development.
- News and article publishing functionality.
- Content management functionality.
- Responsive design for desktop, tablet, and mobile devices.
- Database and server configuration where applicable.
- Integration of agreed third-party services or APIs.
- Testing, debugging, and deployment assistance.

The detailed features and technical requirements may be documented separately as part of the Project specifications.

4. Deliverables and Acceptance

The Developer shall provide the completed website and other agreed deliverables to the Company upon completion of the applicable development work.

The Company shall have seven (7) days after delivery to review the website and notify the Developer of any material defects or deviations from the agreed specifications.

The Developer shall use reasonable efforts to correct confirmed defects within a reasonable period.

Requests for new features, substantial redesigns, or other work outside the original specifications may be treated as additional services and may incur additional fees.

5. Intellectual Property

Upon full payment of all amounts due under this Agreement, the Company shall own the final custom website materials specifically created by the Developer for the Company as part of the Project.

The Developer shall retain ownership of pre-existing tools, frameworks, libraries, templates, reusable code, technical know-how, development techniques, and other materials that were not created specifically for the Company.

Where such pre-existing materials are incorporated into the website, the Developer grants the Company the right to use them as part of the completed website, subject to any applicable third-party licenses.

Third-party software, libraries, APIs, plugins, fonts, and other components shall remain subject to their respective licenses and terms.

6. Payment

The Company shall pay the Developer the agreed development fee of [Amount and Currency].

Unless otherwise agreed in writing, payment shall be made according to the following schedule:

- Initial deposit: [Amount / Percentage]
- Development milestone: [Amount / Percentage]
- Final payment: [Amount / Percentage]

Any additional services or expenses must be approved by the Company before being incurred.

7. Security and Access

The Developer shall take reasonable measures to protect administrative credentials, source code, databases, and other technical access provided by the Company.

The Developer shall not intentionally introduce malicious code, unauthorized access mechanisms, or functionality designed to compromise the Company's systems or users.

Upon completion or termination of the Project, the Developer shall return or remove Company credentials and Confidential Information where reasonably requested, subject to legitimate technical, legal, or backup requirements.

8. Term and Termination

This Agreement begins on January 15, 2026, and shall continue until completion of the Project unless terminated earlier in accordance with this Agreement.

Either Party may terminate this Agreement by written notice if the other Party materially breaches the Agreement and fails to remedy the breach within fourteen (14) days after receiving written notice.

Upon termination, the Company shall pay the Developer for services properly performed and approved expenses incurred up to the effective termination date.

The confidentiality and intellectual-property provisions intended to survive termination shall remain in effect.

9. Independent Contractor

The Developer is an independent contractor and is not an employee, partner, agent, or joint venture partner of the Company.

Nothing in this Agreement creates an employment relationship between the Parties or gives either Party authority to bind the other Party without prior written authorization.

10. Warranties and Liability

The Developer warrants that the services shall be performed with reasonable professional skill and care.

Except where prohibited by applicable law, neither Party shall be liable to the other for indirect, incidental, special, or consequential damages arising from this Agreement.

The Developer shall not be responsible for failures caused by third-party hosting providers, external APIs, plugins, software services, internet infrastructure, unauthorized modifications, or circumstances outside the Developer's reasonable control.

11. General Provisions

This Agreement represents the understanding between the Parties concerning the confidentiality obligations and website development services described herein and supersedes prior discussions concerning the same subject matter.

Any amendment or modification to this Agreement must be made in writing and agreed to by both Parties.

If any provision of this Agreement is found to be unenforceable, the remaining provisions shall continue in full force and effect.

This Agreement shall be governed by the laws of [Jurisdiction/Country], without regard to conflict-of-law principles.

Any dispute arising from this Agreement shall first be addressed through good-faith discussions between the Parties before either Party pursues available legal remedies.

12. Signatures

By signing below, the Parties acknowledge that they have read, understood, and agreed to the terms of this Agreement.
